MOSCOW (AP) — Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko declared today the Soviet Union would like to negotiate a settlement of the Berlin question but is setting no deadline for an agreement.

Gromyko told the Supreme Soviet, in the presence of Premier Khrushchev and President Tito of Yugoslavia, that the Soviet Union is prepared to continue an exchange of opinions with the West on a solution of the German problem.

While saying no time limit was placed on such negotiations, he said the Communist powers ultimately would sign a separate peace treaty with Communist East Germany if the Western powers refused to come to an agreement.

"But we will not count the pages of the calendar," he said, "Gromyko repeated the proposal by Khrushchev Wednesday to replace the Western Allies' troops in West Berlin with the flag of the United Nations."

He said that after a treaty is signed and the Allied troops are out of West Berlin, the Soviet Union would give guarantees for the city's independence.

Gromyko said Soviet guarantees of West Berlin's independence would be just as dependable as those of the NATO powers.

He underscored Khrushchev's peaceful coexistence theme and repeatedly called for negotiated agreements with the United States.

Without mutual understanding between the United States and the Soviet Union, it would be impossible to settle a single international conflict, Gromyko said.

"Either we must decide controversial questions at the conference table or slide into war—there is no other way out for the Soviet Union or the United States," he declared.

Despite their "ideological differences," Gromyko continued, "the Soviet government does not see any unsurmountable obstacles in the relations between the Soviet Union and the United States."

"If there is agreement between Premier Khrushchev and President Kennedy, there will be a solution of international problems on which the fate of mankind depends."

"The Soviet Union would welcome such agreements."

Tito, who followed Gromyko to the rostrum, strongly praised Khrushchev for his handling of the Cuban crisis and defended the Soviet premier's conciliatory moves against the criticism of the Communist Chinese and Albanians.

Tentative American plans to give up on the expensive missile—around which it has shaped its nuclear strategy—has brought a sharp reaction from Britain and put a strain on the alliance.

When asked about the Skybolt dispute at his news conference Wednesday, Kennedy spoke cautiously.

1. He was sure it would be discussed when he meets with Macmillan in the Bahamas Dec. 19-20. The United States is now reviewing its budget for the new fiscal year. No final decision will be made until these matters have been completed.

2. The United States has put a half-billion dollars into the program so far. To complete it and buy the missiles might require $2.5 billion more. Five tests of the 1,000-mile range ballistic missile for launching from bombers have not been successful.

"So—there really is the question of how much it is worth to the British and ourselves to put in that kind of money when we have competing claims for our available funds," the President said.

Kennedy characterized the Skybolt as "the most sophisticated weapon imaginable. To fire a missile from a plane moving at high speed to hit a target 1,000 miles away requires the most advanced engineering and, of course, it has been really, in a sense, the kind of engineering that's been beyond us."

There is, of course, the possibility that Kennedy and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara may reconsider what seems to be the present intention to drop the program.

McNamara's talk with British Defense Minister Peter Thorneycroft in London reportedly got nowhere.

Britain, whose whole strategic nuclear strategy hinged on using the U.S. Skybolt on its own Vulcan bombers, is understood to have rejected firmly any suggestion that it might use the Hound Dog missile instead.

British Chase Rebel Bands in Borneo

By JOHN T. WHEELER

LABUAN, North Borneo (AP) — British troops pushed out from regained towns in Brunei and northwest Sarawak today chasing rebel bands seeking refuge in dense jungles and swamps.

Local British commanders were concerned that the rebels, whose strength still is unknown, would attempt to organize a long guerrilla war from swampy hide-outs.

Several hundred tribesmen from the interior of Sarawak, responding to an ancient hostility to the rebel coastal dwellers, were reported prowling the Brunei-Sarawak border areas in an effort to cut off rebel bands.

However, Lt. Gen. Sir Nigel Poett, commander of British Far East land forces, declared after a visit to operations areas that the possibility of rebel guerrilla resistance already was remote after only six days of revolt.

"We have broken the back of the rebellion," he said.

He pointed out that the rebels, who wanted to set up an independent state composed of the Brunei sultanate and the two neighboring crown colonies of Sarawak and North Borneo, were "fired only with their own and a few rifles."

Missile's Fate Depends on President

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fate of the Skybolt missile program, subject of the hottest U.S.-British argument in years, hangs precariously on next week's meeting between President Kennedy and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan—and this country's military budget.

When asked about the Skybolt dispute at his news conference Wednesday, Kennedy spoke cautiously.

1. He was sure it would be discussed when he meets with Macmillan in the Bahamas Dec. 19-20. The United States is now reviewing its budget for the new fiscal year. No final decision will be made until these matters have been completed.

2. The United States has put a half-billion dollars into the program so far. To complete it and buy the missiles might require $2.5 billion more. Five tests of the 1,000-mile range ballistic missile for launching from bombers have not been successful.

"So—there really is the question of how much it is worth to the British and ourselves to put in that kind of money when we have competing claims for our available funds," the President said.

Kennedy characterized the Skybolt as "the most sophisticated weapon imaginable. To fire a missile from a plane moving at high speed to hit a target 1,000 miles away requires the most advanced engineering and, of course, it has been really, in a sense, the kind of engineering that's been beyond us."

There is, of course, the possibility that Kennedy and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara may reconsider what seems to be the present intention to drop the program.

Ships Trading With Cuba to Be Penalized

By JOHN M. NIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has decided to impose penalties on non-Communist shipping engaged in trade with Cuba, chiefly by denying American cargoes to the vessels.

New regulations are expected to be put into effect in about two weeks.

The President's move, disclosed Wednesday at a news conference, involves reviving plans that were shelved when the Cuban crisis broke in October.

Thus, the United States is reverting to its pre-crisis policy of putting an increasingly tight economic squeeze on the Castro regime in Cuba and, at the same time, making the cost of Soviet support for that regime as high as possible.

Kennedy also made two other major points about the Cuban situation:

1. He hopes that negotiations going on between U.S. and Soviet representatives in New York "will come to some conclusion in the not too distant future." Meanwhile the United States intends to maintain its vigilance against the re-introduction of Soviet offensive weapons into the island. This was the substance of the President's reaction to Soviet Premier Khrushchev's speech in Moscow Wednesday claiming Soviet policy had been victorious in Cuba.

2. It is the "best judgment" of the U.S. government that Soviet nuclear missiles and jet bombers "have been removed from Cuba" but "these things are never 100 per cent" certain. The United States is still insisting on direct verification of the removal of the weapons and on safeguards against their re-introduction.

Khrushchev suggested in his Moscow speech that the conditions exist for clearing up the differences between the United States and the Soviet Union on Cuba. He emphasized that he expects the President to live up to his offer of a no-invasion pledge.

The President said he had not analyzed and did not wish to comment specifically on Khrushchev's statements.

Wants U.S. Role Cut in Agriculture

By YOVID A. MARTIN

Associated Press Farm Writer

ATLANTA (AP) — The American Farm Bureau Federation ends its five-day convention today with directions that its officials renew and redouble efforts to reduce government's role in agriculture.

Indications were that the final session would approve, with little if any significant change, resolutions drafted by a policy committee. Those resolutions struck sharply at federal farm controls, federal spending, and talk of an income tax cut unaccompanied by a corresponding cut in the budget.

In tackling the farm program issue, leaders of the nation's largest farm group will encounter in the coming year, as in the preceding two years, determined opposition from Kennedy administration farm officials and some other farm organizations.

But in 1963, the major battle over the farm control issue may be waged out on the farms rather than in Congress, scene of 1961 and 1962 fights.

A nationwide grower referendum on a new wheat control plan of the administration may well determine the future role of government in most of agriculture. Both farm leaders and Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman agree on the importance of this farm vote.

If claims of convention leaders are accurate, the farm group should win handily. Bureau President Charles B. Shuman and his associates say that a majority of the nation's farmers want fewer controls.

Telephone Firm Buys Another

NEW YORK (AP) — Independent Telephone Corp. of Dryden, N.Y., has acquired Western Arkansas Telephone Co. for an undisclosed amount of cash.

Western Arkansas served 14,000 telephones in Arkansas. With the acquisition, Independent Telephone will serve more than 80,000 telephones in 14 states.

Man Named to Forestry Board

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus named Harold Whitson, a Clarksville automobile dealer, to the state Forestry Commission today.

Whitson succeeds Clarence Byrns of Fort Smith. His term will run through Jan. 14, 1970.

Faubus said Byrns asked not to be reappointed because he now is on the Commission for Coordination of Higher Education Finance.

New Cotton Program Being Aired

By GORDON BROWN

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House committee opens today a two-day hearing into problems of the country's cotton industry and chairman E. C. Gathings, D-Ark., hopes the sessions will lead to quick passage of a new cotton program.

Gathings, who heads the Cotton Subcommittee of the House Agriculture Committee, is determined to get a bill through Congress early enough in next year's session of Congress to apply to the 1963 cotton crop.

His objectives, he said, are to insure that cotton producers will suffer no 1963 decline in income and to eliminate a disparity of about 8.5 cents a pound in the price paid by domestic textile mills.

Domestic mills contend that this disparity—the result of an 8.5 cent a pound subsidy paid on exported cotton—puts them at a big disadvantage in competition with foreign textiles sold in the United States.

Producers fear a decline in their income because of a 2 million acre cut in the cotton acreage allotment plus a decrease in the cotton support price.

The 1962 allotment was set by the Agriculture Department at 18 million acres, next year's at 16 million acres.

The 1962 cotton support price was 82 per cent of parity. The department hasn't yet announced the 1963 support price.

In the hearings Gathings expects to get the views of cotton producers, ginners, shippers and textile manufacturers as to their status under present law and what they seek in a new cotton program.

Views of the Agriculture Department will be heard later. Gathings hopes to get a running start on a bill by getting the industry views ahead of the opening of the new Congress in January.

No Decision on Allotment of Rice Acres

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman says no decision will be made on the 1963 national rice acreage allotment pending an analysis of the prospective market demand.

Freeman gave this word to Rep. E. C. Gathings, D-Ark., a member of the House Agriculture Committee. Gathings had written Freeman in support of a recommendation by U.S. rice producers that the 1963 acreage allotment for the grain be increased to 1,980,000 acres.

The producers say the allotment should be boosted because domestic consumption and export sales of rice continue to increase. They also maintain that unsettled world conditions could lead to more demand for U.S. rice.

Gathings said if some change occurred in the Cuban situation and that the country again became part of the free world "We wouldn't be able to care for her needs without growing much more rice."

Gathings said conditions in the far East could deteriorate further, thus increasing the demand for U.S. rice.

On the domestic front, he said, per capita consumption has risen from 5.5 pounds in 1954 to 6.0 pounds in 1962.

Gathings praised the work of the Agriculture Department in moving U.S. rice into foreign markets. The department, which found new outlets in Africa, is now "talking rice to the European common market," Gathings said.

All these factors, he said, point to the possibility that more U.S. production will be needed to supply the demand.

The actual rice acreage harvested in the United States, he said, has dropped from 250,000 acres in 1954 to 1,747,000 in 1962 — a 31 1/2 per cent reduction.

Freeman has until the end of December to announce the allotment.

Khrushchev Turns Back on China, Albania and Makes Peace With an Old Enemy

An AP News Analysis

By GEORGE SYVERTSEN

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev has declared war on the ideological views of Communist China and Albania and publicly made his peace with his old enemy in the Communist camp, Yugoslav President Tito.

In his speech to the Supreme Soviet Wednesday Khrushchev outlined to his people for the first time the details of his feud with the dissenting Chinese and Albanians.

A neutralist diplomat called the speech "a historic turning point" in Moscow-Peking rivalry.

Khrushchev declared that dogmatism, a Communist synonym for the extreme views of the Chinese, had become just as dangerous as revisionism, a word applied to such independent Communist thinking such as Yugoslavia's.

He swore that, from now on, "Soviet Communists, to whom there is nothing higher than unity of the ranks of the world Communist movement, will fight resolutely against both right-wing and left-wing opportunism, which today is no less dangerous than revisionism."

In an open affront to the anti-Titoist Chinese and Albanians, Khrushchev declared Soviet friendship for the Yugoslav Communists.

This drew an approving nod from Tito, seated behind him on the stage, and loud applause from the deputies of the Supreme Soviet.

Khrushchev blamed Stalin for the differences that led to Yugoslavia's expulsion from the Communist camp in 1948.

"But our Yugoslav comrades were not wholly blameless," he added.

"There are still serious divergencies on a number of ideological questions, he continued, but recent moves in Yugoslav domestic and foreign policy have "eliminated much of what we regarded as erroneous and as prejudicing the cause of building socialism (communism) in Yugoslavia."

He apparently was referring to Tito's recent economic reforms, tightening central controls over decentralized Yugoslav industries, and his close support of Soviet foreign policy stands.

While never mentioning the Chinese by name, Khrushchev accused them of "sinking deeper and deeper in the quagmire of leftist opportunism, splitting tactics and sectarianism."

"In the crisis over Cuba, Yugoslav Communists took a correct position, whereas dogmatists who pose as true Marxists-Leninists took a provocative position," he said.

"What the crisis in Cuba has shown is that the main danger was represented by those who stood and stand on dogmatic positions."

Rhodes Scholars

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — J. Michael Barrier, 26, and Robert L. Brown, 21, have been selected by the Rhodes Scholarship Committee. Gathings had written Freeman in support of a recommendation by U.S. rice producers that the 1963 acreage allotment for the grain be increased to 1,980,000 acres.

Man Loses Race With Death

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — An Arkansas father lost a race against death last night and his two-year-old son died of a bullet wound suffered when a mislaid pistol discharged.

James Hunt, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Hunt of Eureka Springs, Ark., died a few hours after he reached a Tulsa hospital.

Hunt said his wife and a neighbor had taken the boy along when they went shopping. Alone in the car, the boy discovered a loaded pistol the neighbor had left in the car.

The weapon discharged. The bullet struck the boy in the head. An ambulance rushed him to the hospital at Rogers, Ark.

Another ambulance was waiting at Brown Airport in Tulsa, but darkness forced the plane to land at Tulsa Municipal Airport, several miles away. Hunt took his son to the hospital in a taxi.

JFK Trying to Close Book on Stevenson

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy tried again to close the book on the Adlai Stevenson chapter in the Cuban crisis. He said it should be left to history "when the whole record will be spread out in great detail."

But he said he thought that after having read various statements of the past 30 days "any history... and I think this matter should be left to historians—who walk through this mine field of charges and countercharges, should proceed with some care."

The President in his news conference Wednesday touched on many subjects—including the Mona Lisa and a record spoofing the First Family. But the questions kept returning to Cuba and Stevenson.

The President again endorsed the U.N. ambassador saying: "The fact of the matter is that Gov. Stevenson renders very distinguished service. He has done an excellent job at the United Nations."

But the President left up in the air who in the administration may have given two reporters information portraying Stevenson as urging appeasement during Cuban crisis conferences of the National Security Council's executive committee.

The president said: "It is my judgment that this statement or interpretation of Gov. Stevenson's position did not come from a member of the National Security Council. I satisfied myself on that. I never heard anyone characterize Stevenson's position in that way and I am satisfied myself that no one did."

He added there were other people who might have. But that, he said, is a matter for reporters—"A matter that, as I say, I think can much better be left to history when the whole record will be spread out in great detail."

Kennedy was asked: "You don't know, then, who leaked it?"

"No, I don't know who," he replied, "and I think it is unfortunate if anybody discusses any matter that comes before the National Security Council because I think it lessens its effectiveness."

The tempest blew up over an article in the Saturday Evening Post, written by Washington newsmen Stewart Alsop and Charles Bartlett, which gave an account of the council's deliberations during the crisis and the positions various members took.

Stevenson has denounced the account of his position as untrue and Kennedy made public a letter expressing his confidence in the U.N. ambassador.

Because Bartlett is an old and close friend of the President, rumors immediately shot through the capital that someone in the administration was "out to get Adlai." Fears were expressed that an attempt was being made to undermine him at the United Nations.

On other matters, Kennedy said he hadn't had time to digest Soviet Premier Khrushchev's speech earlier in the day in which he declared he would hold the United States to its promise of a guarantee against invading Cuba.

Kennedy said he hoped Cuban settlement negotiations at the United Nations would reach "some conclusion" but asserted the United States would use its own methods to insure against another Soviet buildup in Cuba.

These methods, he said, "are very effective."

As of now, Kennedy declared, "it is our best judgment" that the Soviets have withdrawn their missiles and bombers from Cuba.

Judgment in Sale Appealed

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A Washington County lawsuit involving a $500 judgment in connection with sale of the Hinton Winery of Springdale was appealed to the Arkansas Supreme Court today.

Filing the appeal were J. B. and Kathleen Bryant of Springdale who said they had bought the winery for $32,000 from Virginia Thompson and Irene and W. L. Hinton.

After the Bryants took possession of the property, they said, the defendants removed from the property a scale valued at $1,000 and sold it to the Tyson Poultry Co. of Springdale.

They asked judgments totaling more than $1,500 for conversion of the scale and appealed because Judge Maupin Cummings set damages at only $500.

The college, he said, owes about $80,000 on its newest building, Sherman Tyree Hall. Bright became bishop of the district Nov. 17.

Khyber Pass Still Scene of Battling

By DAVID LANCASHIRE

KHYBER PASS, Pakistan (AP)—The clang of ancient battle seems to echo still from the limestone cliffs of this historic invasion route where Alexander the Great's soldiers marched into India and generations of British troops fought the Pathan tribesmen.

But now you can drive comfortably through Khyber Pass in a taxi and buy a porcelain bust of Abraham Lincoln or a bag of fresh popcorn on the way.

Silence hangs over the great mud fort of Jamrud. The squat stone picket forts guarding the hilltops are empty of riflemen.

Tribesmen, with guns slung in their hands and chests lopped with bandoliers of cartridges, smile and pose for pictures. The road that twists along 21 miles of Khyber Pass is a tourist route.

Under the colorfully calm exterior, however, tribal passions still boil and the pass is once again a point of tension. American aid which poured through the famous mountain valley until last year is affected.

Cut through great brown shale and limestone walls, Khyber Pass joins West Pakistan and Afghanistan. Over the centuries foreign invaders have used it to conquer India—Greeks, Tartars, Moguls and Persians.

Mrs. John F. Kennedy made a one-woman invasion of it this year, and villagers reminisce hungrily about the feast given in her honor.

British soldiers of the Indian army used to lead expedition after expedition through it for wars against Afghanistan and to subdue rifle-wielding tribesmen who created havoc on the frontier. In nearby Jagdalik Pass the Pathans wiped out a retreating British army of 16,000 men in 1841.

The Khyber is a restricted and loosely administered tribal area still. Visitors need a special entry pass from the Pakistan government. Tribal justice rules and shooting feuds are common.

Garishly colored buses bulging with passengers, baggage geese and chickens grind up the pass road. Hooded women in baggy trousers trek to their fortified mud villages with bundles of firewood on their heads.

Alongside runs a railway built with many tunnels in 1925. The tribesmen ride it free. A few years ago they shot a conductor who insisted on collecting fares.

The political trouble that swirls around the pass today is another tribal affair. Pakistan and Afghanistan broke off diplomatic relations 15 months ago when Afghan diplomats were accused of fomenting strife and subversion among tribesmen in the frontier area.

Kabul traditionally has brought its imports through Pakistan—many of them through Khyber Pass. It stopped when the dispute arose. Pakistan lost a lucrative transport business, but Afghanistan may have cut off its nose to spite its face.

Now the country has no practical way of importing anything. Some goods still come in through the Soviet Union or follow an almost prohibitively expensive roundabout route through Iran.

The United States has virtually suspended aid since materials cannot be brought in.

Moore, Trail to Captain in Sugar Bowl

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Seniors Billy Moore and Ray Trail were elected Wednesday to captain the Arkansas Razorback football team New Year's Day in the Sugar Bowl.
Moore, a quarterback, and Trail, a guard, also will be official captains of the 1956 squad.
As is the custom, Arkansas' 11 seniors have alternated as captains during the regular season. Permanent captains always are elected after the schedule is completed.
Coach Frank Broyles said all 11 seniors had received votes in the balloting Wednesday, adding that all were deserving of the honor because "our seniors have given us the best leadership we ever had."
The Porks met Mississippi in the bowl game.
Cold weather forced the Razorbacks inside for the third consecutive day as they continued preparations for the bowl appearance.
The team worked on conditioning drills and did turns on weights.
Fayetteville had 18 degree weather Wednesday afternoon. Broyles has said there will be no outside contact work until the Porks get to Biloxi, Miss. after the Christmas holidays.

Hog Cagers Meet Tulsa Tonight

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — The University of Arkansas Razorbacks meet Tulsa in Barnhill Field House tonight in the first of three tough basketball games leading up to an important holiday tournament.
The Porks are 2-1 for the season, after losing to Oklahoma State 45-46 in an overtime game Tuesday night.
They meet Mississippi in Blytheville Saturday night and Louisiana State University next Wednesday night at Little Rock before going to Oklahoma City for the All-College Tournament.

Ark. State Wins in an Overtime

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — Center Jerry Hudgins took a rebound the length of the court and hit a hook shot to give Arkansas State College a 62-60 overtime victory over Southeastern Oklahoma Wednesday night.
It was the only college basketball game played in the state. The Arkansans handed Oklahoma its first loss in five starts. A-State now has a 3-2 season record.
Forward Jerry Rook knotted the score 56-56 at the end of the regulation game by sinking a jump shot. With 1:38 left in the game Don Shatley had picked up two of four free throws and Hudgins a 20-foot jump shot to overcome a six-point lead of Southeastern.
Rook hit a layup early in the overtime to put A-State ahead, then substitute Gary Holland contributed two free throws earned by forward Gaylor Ward. Ward was injured when he was fouled and had to leave the game.
Harold McDaniels hit 4 of 4 free throws for Oklahoma to tie the score, but Hudgins took the rebound, dribbled down court and sank a hook shot with three seconds left, icing the game for A-State.
Oklahoma controlled the ball in the first half and led 28-18 at the end of that period. They had developed a 20-point lead earlier in the half. The two teams met again here tonight.

Jim Taylor Pro Player of Year

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Jim Taylor, Green Bay's crashing fullback who is noted for his great second effort, was voted Player of the Year in the National Football League today by an Associated Press committee of sports writers and broadcasters from the 14 league cities.

Taylor, a 27-year-old former Louisiana State ace in his fifth year of pro ball, grabbed the award won last year by Paul Hornung, the Packers' glamorous triple threat halfback who has been crippled by a knee injury this season.

With one more game to play, Taylor already has tied the NFL record by scoring 18 touchdowns, all on the ground, and leads the league in scoring with 108 points. Packers fans have been insisting that Taylor deserved to be named the All-Star fullback over Cleveland's Jimmy Brown. They finally got their wish this season. Brown's fabulous five-year reign as rushing champion is sure to end and Taylor appears sure to succeed him. Taylor has gained 1,318 yards in 249 carries, 206 yards more than John Henry Johnson of Pittsburgh, his closest competitor. Brown is fourth with 661 yards.

Temple Has Trouble But Is Winner

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bad eyesight, good insight and a pair of bent-up junior high school bifocals were the main topics of discussion today as Temple's Owls focused their attention on the strange events of victory No. 3.

Things went wrong for Temple at the start against Bucknell Wednesday night when Bob Harrington lost one of his contact lenses early in the first quarter. A search of the Palestra basketball court failed to locate the lost lens.

Harrington was forced to the bench and the Owls trailed. But Harrington was thinking, and quickly dispatched his three brothers to their home. Midway in the second half, the brothers returned with the beat-up glasses Harrington hadn't worn since junior high school.

The 6-foot-2 junior went back into the game, got his eye on the basket and sank four straight baskets, putting Temple ahead to stay, 48-45, in a 61-53 triumph over the Bisons. In the second half of the Palestra double header, LaSalle clobbered Lehigh, 65-34.

Elsewhere, Bowling Green maintained its average winning spread of 50 points a game while walloping Miami, 88-36; Kentucky reacted to a tongue-lashing by coach Adolph Rupp and belted Florida State, 83-4; and Navy edged Gettysburg, 65-63 on 2 foul shots with 2 seconds remaining by Ben Thomas, the Mid-dies' first Negro cager.

In other top games, Bob Foley's 20-point performance led Army to a 73-61 victory over Buffalo, San Francisco defeated Oklahoma City, 86-74; Purdue got by Wash-bash, 73-64; Holy Cross thumped Harvard, 83-64; and Connecticut opened defense of its Yankee crown with an 85-64 decision over Massachusetts.

Reacting to Rupp's verbal broadsides after a narrow 56-52 decision over Temple Saturday, Kentucky's Wildcats hit 61.5 per cent of their shots in the first half and left Florida State way behind, 55-33.

Gotham Bowl Is on Again in New York

NEW YORK (AP)—The off-again, on-again Gotham Bowl football game is — at least at last count — on again. Maybe.

There was considerable doubt about the status of the game most of the day and into the night Wednesday. The television situation still is up in the air.

Miami, which once or twice threatened to pull out of the troubled affair scheduled for Yankee Stadium Saturday, now says it's coming. The Hurricanes' opponent, Nebraska, is taking a wait and see attitude, meanwhile expecting to fly home Friday.

"Maybe we ought to change the name to 'The Suspense Bowl,'" Gotham Bowl executive director Bob Curran said Wednesday after a series of hastily called conferences that lasted far into the night.

The whole confused affair culminated in the announcement by Miami University president Dr. Henry King Stanford the university had been assured by legal counsel for New York Mayor Robert Wagner that funds covering team expenses would be placed in escrow today.

Nebraska chancellor Clifford M. Hardin, however, said he had received no word from the bowl committee about Nebraska's requested $35,000 for expenses.

Hardin said he assumed that if the bowl committee is putting the Miami funds in escrow "they will do it some for us. But we are just going to wait and see if the deposit is made."

Curran, meanwhile, continued his assertion that the game is on and will be televised.

"It's the same situation we had last year," he said. "You can look for television. We'll have it. I just can't say any more about it right now."

The bonds carried a 2-mill tax increase.

County Judge William Wood said the county's share of construction costs would be $165,000.

with the remainder of the total cost of $496,710 coming from the federal government under the Hill-Burton Act.

Oregon Back Named Most Outstanding

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Versatile Terry Baker, Oregon State's do-everything quarterback, was named the outstanding college football back in the nation today in an Associated Press poll of sportswriters and broadcasters.

Baker, who is being buried in an avalanche of honors in post-season activity, was a narrow choice over Jerry Stovall of Louisiana State, Miami's George Mira and Wisconsin's Ron VanderKelen followed in that order.

Baker previously had been named to the All-America team and had won the Heisman and Maxwell trophies. He was the No. 1 draft choice of the professional National Football League.

"You name it, and he can do it," one voter commented in casting his ballot for the slender, 195-pound Baker who finished with a career total of 4,980 yards gained, second highest in collegiate history.

Baker, however, edged Stovall by only two votes in the balloting by 132 sportswriters from coast to coast. Stovall, a powerful, explosive runner, was the only non-quarterback in the top five.

Baker, who passes left-handed, kicks with his right foot and pitches baseball right-handed, was the first draft choice of the Los Angeles Rams, who had the No. 1 pick in the NFL.

Baker gained 2,276 yards rushing and passing and threw 1 touchdown passes in leading Oregon State to an 8-2 record and a spot against Villanova this weekend.

The bonds carried a 2-mill tax increase.

with the remainder of the total cost of $496,710 coming from the federal government under the Hill-Burton Act.

Olympic Groups to Talk it Out

NEW YORK (AP)—Soundly spanked by President Kennedy for "continued bickering" that threatened U.S. participation in the Olympics, both the Amateur Athletic Union and the new college-dominated U.S. Track and Field Federation agreed today to submit their differences to an arbitration panel.

The President called for such arbitration at his news conference Wednesday "on behalf of the country and on behalf of sports." Kennedy had warned that if the organizations refused, "we will not have an Olympic team in 1964."

"We will submit to the panel suggested by the President," said Col. Don Hull, executive director of the AAU.

"I think the President is absolutely right," said Chick Werner, longtime Pennsylvania State track coach who heads the new federation.

"The federation has stood willing to work out a solution with the AAU and I am sure federation officials continue to hold that position," said Walter Byers, executive director of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, which spawned the federation.

The dispute between the two organizations over the control of amateur sports in the country has raged for 2½ years. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, the President's brother, sat in on a meeting last month between the two groups in New York at which a solution apparently was reached.

But the agreement quickly fell apart.

The NCAA, through federations set up in track, gymnastics, basketball and baseball, has challenged the right of the AAU to certify athletes as eligible for international competition. The AAU holds the right under international rules.

Catholic Prelates Head Home

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Roman Catholic prelates headed home Sunday from an Ecumenical Council that brought them and protestants into their closest contact in 400 years.

But the Catholic Council, beginning a nine-month recess, also emphasized that Christian unity is still far off. Churchmen at the assembly talked of centuries.

Pope John XXIII recessed the council Saturday, reiterating his hope that it would bring benefits for the cause of Christian unity. The council's second phase begins Sept. 8, 1963.

In the two months since the council opened Oct. 11, no concrete action was taken. But in the background of the debates was Christendom's elusive dream of unity. From the start it was clear that the council, by its very existence, had advanced inter-church union.

Never before had so many Roman Catholic prelates — 2,200 of them—gathered together. And 40 non-Catholic observers, invited from protestant and orthodox churches, sat with them and talked with them.

Augustin Cardinal Bea, head of the Vatican's Secretariat for Promoting Christian Unity, called the meeting of Catholicism and protestantism "a miracle." So did the Rev. Oscar Cullman, an observer from the Swiss Evangelical Church.

But no one suggested unity would be accomplished overnight. Richard Cardinal Cushing, Archbishop of Boston, said unity might take generations, "even some'd have to mail it."

hundreds of years." He said the job was to "sow the seed that others may reap the harvest."

The Rev. Dr. Douglas Horton, former Dean of the Harvard Divinity School, said he and other protestant observers were at the council to get a better understanding of Roman Catholicism. Dr. Horton, a Congregationalist, added:

"This may be the beginning of a form of union that might come to accomplishment 1,000 years hence. We just don't know."

Dr. Horton and some of the other observers here felt Pope John was largely responsible for the Roman Catholic Church's efforts to improve contacts with other Christians.

"Since Pope John came to office, a new wind has blown from Rome," said Dr. Horton. "Of course that wind may cease under new leadership."

S. Africa Is Object of Pickets

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 35 persons, most of them students, picketed Sunday in front of the White House and near the South African Embassy in a protest against South Africa's policy of racial segregation.

One of the leaders, Peter Irons, said he tried to present a petition calling on the United States to impose economic sanctions against South Africa but that White House Guards would not accept it.

"I told them the Constitution guarantees the right to petition for redress of grievances," Irons said, "but they said that didn't make any difference. They said take generations, 'even some'd have to mail it.'"

A National Kindergarten Trend Seen

By JOHN R. STARR
LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Education Commissioner Atch Ford sees a national trend toward kindergartens in connection with public schools and he thinks Arkansas should go along with it.

"At the very least, I think the constitution should be amended to permit local school districts to spend their funds on kindergartens if they desire," Ford says.

The commissioner first advanced his ideas on kindergarten at a nine-county educational meeting in Russellville. He repeated them before the Legislative Council. He plans to take them to other groups in coming months.

But the Education department will not sponsor a kindergarten amendment in the 1963 Legislature, Ford said.

"This is a personal idea of mine," he said. "I'm not sure everyone in the department favors kindergartens, but I feel we should open the door to them."

The block in present law is a constitutional stipulation that the state shall provide free public education for children between the ages of 6 and 21. Ford said this precludes spending tax money on kindergartens for children aged 5.

"Even the larger districts which might want kindergartens, such as Little Rock can't have them under the current law," he said.

Ford does not propose a mandatory system of kindergartens. The local school district should have the final say on whether to have one, he said.

But he would favor some state aid for kindergartens, despite the present cry that the educational dollar is stretched to far already.

"We've never waited until we had sufficient money to fully finance existing programs to add a new service," Ford said. "If this policy had been pursued over the past 40 years, we'd never had had high schools outside larger towns because the rural districts never had enough money for their elementary schools."

"We must go on the philosophy that needed services should be inaugurated. I believe you can get the money when you give services that the people want or need."

Ford said Arkansas' transition from a farming economy to an economy balancing agriculture and industry has pointed up a need for kindergartens in growing metropolitan areas.

"Private kindergartens are springing up everywhere," he said. "That shows the need. But many of these establishments lack proper safeguards of qualifications of teaching personnel and so forth. There are some good kindergartens, but not all of them are good."

Some Facts About Life in Arkansas

By J. C. TILLMAN

Associated Press Staff Writer

The egg industry got a boost the other night when four youths at Beebe joked each other into an eating contest.

The usual arrangements were made—the one who ate the most would get a free meal.

Together, the boys consumed 56 eggs, the bacon, bread, milk and coffee to go with them.

Harlen Benton, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Benton of El Paso, Tex., came in first, downing 18 eggs plus the trimmings.

Robert Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Hall of Beebe, was second with 14. Jimmy Fowles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Fowles of Beebe and James Harbour, a visiting Tennessee youth, could manage only a dozen each.

Harlen and Robert were at a disadvantage too. They had eaten supper before taking the dares.

Margaret Ann Shrum of Almyra is a published novelist—at age 17. Her book, "Road Without End," will be published soon by Carlton Press of New York.

She started work on a high school English project and it grew into the book. The novel deals with the plight of two teen-age sisters.

The Red Sox also will deliver a third player—a minor leaguer—to the Mets at a later date.

In another transaction Tuesday, the Philadelphia Phillies acquired catcher Earl Averill from the Los Angeles Angels for outfielder Jack Davis. The trades were the ninth and 10th of the inter-league trading period, which ends at midnight Saturday.

When Boston owner Tom Yawkey made Mike Higgins vice president and installed Johnny Pesky as manager he promised, "we are ready to make every intelligent move we can to improve the Red Sox." The Red Sox have been out in the market place ever since.

The trade for Mantilla, who played all infield positions for the Mets except first base and batted .275 in 141 games, was the third of the inter-league session for the Red Sox, who have been the most active team in the dealings between American and National League clubs.

NEW YORK (AP)—Little hope of an early end to the city's news paper strike appeared in sight as New Yorkers tried to adjust to a Sunday without their usual fat newspapers.

The walkout that began at 2 a.m. Saturday has idled about 18,000 persons on the 9 papers affected.

No negotiations were conducted Sunday. The next round of joint talks will start at 11 a.m. Monday.

Amory Bradford, head of the publishers' negotiating committee said all indications pointed to the strike lasting for "quite a while."

This was echoed by Bertram A. Powers, president of New York Typographical Union No. 6.

"We're going to the limit to get them to come off their fixed position," Powers said.

The union struck the Times, Daily News, Journal-American and World-Telegram & Sun.

The Herald Tribune, Daily Mirror, Post, Long Island Star-Journal and the Long Island Press then suspended publication voluntarily. The Press, however, is printing its Nassau and Suffolk County editions.

The nine papers have a combined circulation of 5,500,000 papers a day.

Meanwhile, the 4,000-member Newspaper and Mail Deliverers Union which had been negotiating with the publishers for a new contract, voted to "suspend consideration of an offer by New York City newspaper publishers until the printers' strike is over."

Although there was no official request from the publishers' committee, Joseph Kingsbury-Smith, publisher of the Journal-American appealed last night to President Kennedy to have Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz intervene in the strike.

Last month Wirtz stepped into a strike between the News and the American Newspaper Guild and helped arrange a settlement that set a pattern for other guild pacts here.

In Washington, however, a labor department spokesman said Wirtz had no immediate plans for intervening.

Ford said he believes voters would approve an amendment authorizing optional kindergartens if given the opportunity. This could come through legislative action of by placing an amendment on the ballot through circulation of petitions.

The commissioner said he felt such as those which got a voting be a worthy undertaking for some group, or collection of groups, such as those with got a voting machine amendment on the 1962 general election ballot.

Once the amendment is passed, Ford said, the legislature would have authority to say whether the state would participate in the program and local school boards would make the final decision whether to proceed, with or without state aid.

Ford said at least 24 states now permit expenditure of state funds for kindergartens and still others allow local districts to spend their own money on kindergartens.

In another transaction Tuesday, the Philadelphia Phillies acquired catcher Earl Averill from the Los Angeles Angels for outfielder Jack Davis. The trades were the ninth and 10th of the inter-league trading period, which ends at midnight Saturday.

Age Finally Catches Adenauer

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—West Germany's Chancellor Adenauer is getting the same shove British Prime Minister Churchill got seven years ago. Out. The reason is the same: Too old.

None of the other old-timers who have been dominating world events in the 20th Century's middle years shows any signs of quitting voluntarily. None, however, is in his 80s, like Churchill and Adenauer.

In 1955, when Churchill was 81, some of the men closest to him told him he was too old to head the government any longer. They urged him to quit for the good of the country. He didn't want to go.

After Stalin's death in 1953 he urged of a summit meeting with the Russians. If there had been any change in the Kremlin, he thought, a long peace for Europe might be worked out. Pressure persisted. He quit April 6, 1955.

Then, just a few months later, there was a summit conference with his successor, Anthony Eden, taking part. Nothing much came of it. Churchill is 88 now.

Adenauer will be 87 in January. He's been the only chancellor West Germany has had since it was established in 1949. West Germany, like Britain when Churchill left, is enjoying its greatest prosperity.

In those 13 years Adenauer not only led West Germany into close alliance with its enemies of two world wars — the United States, Britain, France — but into a democratic society away from its ancient authoritarianism.

Like Churchill, Adenauer has been reluctant to go. Like Churchill, he still feels he has unfinished business. In his case it's tighter relations with France and cementing the Common Market, of which Germany is a part.

If there ever is a United States of Europe it will probably spring from those beginnings. Thus Adenauer has been a tremendous force.

Yet, in recent years the feeling has grown in Germany that anti-authoritarian Adenauer has himself become increasingly authoritarian. This feeling piled up and burst through in the German elections of September 1961.

If the Christian Democratic Party failed to win a majority in Parliament, he had to seek the support of the Free Democrats, which meant a coalition government, to get himself chosen chancellor once more.

There was a price tag on this. The Free Democrats were willing to put up with him a while longer but not indefinitely. On Nov. 8, 1961 he gave a guarantee he would retire before his term ended.

But he didn't say exactly when. This became a sore point. The Free Democrats have just put the squeeze on him again. He let it be announced last Friday he'd leave in the fall of 1963.

His successor is expected to be Dr. Ludwig Erhard, minister of economics. He's expected to concentrate more on domestic problems, leaving the foreign ones to others.

Right here there's a difference between Britain without Churchill and Germany without Adenauer. Britain has had a long tradition of democracy and a tremendous sense of continuity in its leadership.

Churchill's going meant no basic changes in Britain. But Germany has had a democratic system only 13 years and, before that, a long history of authoritarianism, whether under the Nazis or an emperor.

Since West Germany's democratic roots, therefore, are recent, they are not so sure as Britain's. While Germany under Adenauer was both a friend and an ally, it may not remain that way under those coming after him.

Adenauer Cancels Leaders' Talk

BONN, Germany (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer canceled a meeting with Socialist leaders today for talks on forming a coalition government.

The chancellor, who is 86, called off the meeting when a German news agency reported the Socialists agreed to enter the coalition only if Adenauer would retire next year.

However, informed sources said Adenauer later scheduled a meeting tonight with the Socialist party chief, Erich Ollenhauer. Ollenhauer was reported prepared to tell Adenauer the news agency's report was not true.

Powell to Quit as a Preacher

NEW YORK (AP)—Rep. Adam Clayton Powell Jr., D-N.Y., said Sunday he would retire as pastor of the Abyssinian Baptist church "on or before Dec. 1, 1963."

Addressing his Harlem congregation from the church pulpit, Powell added: "Again I state, if no one is found by that date, will continue until the right type of minister is found."

Powell cited the strain of his job in Congress in making an early announcement of his retirement plans.

Powell, 53, succeeded his father as pastor for his 11,000-member congregation 32 years ago.

Judge T. D. Reedy he made about 18 calls. Police found the boy by having Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. monitor the Conway switchboard. Any violation of the probation would mean confinement to the Arkansas Boys Industrial School, Reedy said.

MAN ON THE SKEWBALD MARE

By Nelson C. Nye

THE STORY: For a second time, Rafe flees from the Pikes—including Bonnie—on his skewbald mare. But he is pursued by Spangler's men.

It would pay a man to be almightily cautious in assessing any actions of a girl bold as Bunny Pike. Rafe wasn't depressed about the gun-waver he had shot —he would like to have done as much for that other one.

He replaced the spent loads and observed that his cover was about to play out. Through the branches ahead he could see the town's buildings. Considering the risks of showing himself he was forced to the rather reluctant conclusion the safest place for Rafe Bender right now was Dry Bottom would be Alph Chilton's bank.

He could see its brick shape a couple of hundred yards off, and pulled up again in the last of the brush for a prolonged, intent and pretty, scowling appraisal. The backs of buildings seldom offer, with their rubbish of rusting tins, broken crates and flapping paper, a particularly inspiring sight, but Rafe guessed he should be thankful to be looking at their unsightly side. There were worse things a man could stare at. Back lots, anyway, didn't get much traffic.
With reasonable luck a man ought to be able to get from here to there in one piece, if he was careful.

It bothered him, though, not to see any sign of hat feller from the rocks, the shot guy's pard. If the bleach-eyed son had taken out to nail him, it was natural to think that when Rafe hadn't shown where he had been looked for, the feller would have come on into town to do his hunting.
Rafe would have done it.

Behind his screen of branches Rafe swung down to rest and stretch the kinks from his legs while he waited to see if Spangler's gunhawk would show.

After about 10 minutes of standing around the skewbald mare began to paw with impatience, bumping Rafe's shoulder with vigorous pokes of her head.

"Dang it, quit!" Rafe growled, bating her away with his hat.
He got out the makings, rolled up a smoke and, with his eyes going narrow suddenly pitched it away. He dropped the reins to the ground; then thinking better of this, tied them to a sapling stout enough to keep her anchored, it being in his mind Spangler's gunnie may have gone to pick up his tracks.

It was a sensible assumption and Rafe, proceeding to act on it, again drew his pistol, creeping back along his trail with all the stealth of a crouching puma. He knew, by grannies, he had better be careful. In country like this there wasn't much leg room betwixt the quick and them that hadn't been quite quick enough.

And so it was that, presently, Rafe's aching vigilance fastened onto an impression of approaching movement. It was scarcely more than a hunch when he got onto it, not much easier to be gauged than the foothills of a gopher, the merest whisperings of sound. But it snapped up his hackles.

With his eyes stabbing about he scanned the surroundings and his chances. Impatiently shaking his head he moved on, hunting terrain better suiting his needs knowing from experience with Jeb Stuart during the war that a fracas fought on ground of one's choosing was a squabble more likely to fetch a man out on top.

He came over a rise and found what he wanted a tiny 20-foot clearing with a rock to one side of it big enough to easily hide a waiting man. The sounds were plain enough now, snap and crackle of branches, a shod hoof scraping stone. Rafe, eyes slitted, pistol tight in his fist—the one Pike had fixed for him, backed into the clearing, hurried over to the rock, moving clear on around it and, careful now to conceal his flight, circled back to the rise and dropped, breathing hard, behind it.

Rafe's right hand wasn't right even yet. It still had twinges and there was times when the muscles didn't work like they had ought to—but he had proved back at Pike's it was good enough to shoot with.

Now the sounds were close enough to sort out. It was plain the feller had got out of his saddle. Rafe could hear the scrape and scuff of his boots in between the sharper footfalls of his horse.
Probably he was leading the critter. It was easy to picture them that way, the man crouched over, eyes bating around, as he unraveled Rafe's sign.

If this was Spangler's gunfighter he wouldn't be used to this kind of chore, likely making hard work of it getting madder with every stride. But, account of his trade, he'd have his eyes peeled too, which could account for the time it had taken him to get here.
Rafe, ears stretched, held his breath in cold suspense, knowing the feller must be pretty near up to where those tracks he'd just made took off toward the rock.

Would the guy notice? Would suspicion bite into him? Would he come straight on, paying no attention to the overlay of boot marks?
All sound suddenly quit.

Women Will Protest as Pacifists

WASHINGTON (AP)—Militant women were expected to pack the House caucus room again today at a hearing on Women Strike for Peace, a pacifist group.

Schoenke, a tackle from Southern Methodist.

The opening session Tuesday was repeatedly interrupted by applause as some witnesses voiced emotional defiance to the House subcommittee on Un-American Activities and an ex-FBI man shouted a demand for a halt in the proceedings. He was escorted out by a policeman.

The hearings, have drawn protests from liberal groups and from Rep. William F. Ryan, D-N.Y., who said they were an example of "misuse and abuse of legislative power."

Two of the women witnesses cited the Fifth Amendment—a constitutional protection against possible self-incrimination—in refusing to answer questions, including whether they are or had been Communists.

Another woman, Mrs. Lyla
Hoffman of Great Neck, N.Y., argued that the committee's questions were not relevant to her activities in organizing Women Strike for Peace in her community. She conceded she had once been a Communist but not for the past five years. She cited the First Amendment provisions on freedom of association rather than the Fifth Amendment.

More New York area women are expected to be called during the three days of hearings. Another prospective witness is Mrs.
Dagmar Wilson, Washington leader of the group, who has organized several picket lines at the White House protesting nuclear testing.

The ex-FBI man was Jack Levine, who gained considerable notice recently by writing a maga-

Figure 3,000 Red Troops Have Left

By LEWIS GULICK
WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. sources estimated today that between 2,000 and 3,000 Soviet troops have left Cuba during the past few weeks.
This withdrawal leaves in Cuba the bulk of Soviet military personnel sent there for missile and other activities.
Estimates on the number still there range from 9,000 to 15,000. The estimates on the withdrawals also range widely because of difficulty in figuring how many men may be aboard outbound ships.
U.S. officials view the withdrawal as moving at a disappointingly slow pace.
This continuing Soviet military presence in Cuba has been one of the factors keeping the U.S.-Soviet dispute lingering on after the removal of Soviet missiles and bombers.
Premier Khrushchev has written President Kennedy that Soviet units associated with the offensive weapons will be withdrawn in due course.
But this left a lot to be pinned down. Among other things, it is not known here whether the Kremlin considered the short-range anti-aircraft missiles in Cuba to be protection for the longer range offensive weapons—and therefore now intends to withdraw them.

Originally, the administration expressed the view that the Soviet military personnel entering Cuba were advisors and technicians, not troops.
Kennedy said on Aug. 28 that "we have no evidence of troops" in Cuba, and on Sept. 13, at his last news conference before the crisis. He was still referring to technicians.
The Washington assessment changed fast with the discovery of the offensive weapons in Cuba. The Russians themselves were found to be setting up the missile sites, and presumably they would train the missiles.
Some reports indicate that the personnel originally sent to Cuba as rocket experts have been reformed into regular army units now that their offensive weapons have been withdrawn.
Some officials feel that there was nothing surprising about this—that it's a routine military procedure for personnel under such circumstances and does not indicate the missilemen will be kept in Cuba as ground combat troops.

No Word on Talker Close to President

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—Still unsettled, like a lingering sore, is the question: Who revealed what went on when President Kennedy decided on a showdown with Russia over its missiles in Cuba? He acted after getting the views of his National Security Council in a highly secret session. The council members are among the most important men in government.
This week, the Columbia Broadcasting System and Life, Time and Newsweek magazines said Kennedy himself threw open government files to two Saturday Evening Post reporters, one of them a close, personal friend, to prepare a chronology on what happened. It was quite a chronology.
Last week the Post came out with a story on what happened and who said what. It was too well documented, too full of direct and indirect quotes, to have been dreamed up.
The most super-secret outfit in the government is the Central Intelligence Agency. The Post even quoted CIA men, directly and indirectly, including a telephone conversation with McGeorge Bundy, Kennedy's special assistant. And Monday night a CBS correspondent said Bundy supplied much of the material for the Post article.
Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary said the Life story pointing the finger at the President is "absolutely and completely without foundation."
But there has been no indication from the White House that Kennedy has ordered an investigation of the leak or intends to do anything about it. And meanwhile the Washington Evening Star backs up the Life story. It said Monday:
"Competent sources told the Star that Mr. Kennedy did tell his advisers to cooperate with the Post reporters and that some of them refused to do so."
The Star said Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara was one who refused.
The President will be asked about all this at his news conference Wednesday. Unless he discloses more than the White House has been willing to so far, the whole subject will remain a sore.
This basic issue—who talked to reporters about what happened at the secret council meeting?—got lost sight of for a while in the uproar caused by what the Post said was Adlai Stevenson's role in the council session.
The Post quoted a "non-admiring official" as saying Stevenson, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, "wanted a Munich" by making concessions to the Russians instead of insisting on a showdown.
If left unanswered, this statement would seem to undercut Stevenson's position in the Kennedy administration and at the United Nations. Stevenson promptly and repeatedly denied the Post account. He said his view was the opposite.
Kennedy finally, but after some days, let it be known that Stevenson had backed his decision to have a showdown. But at no time has Kennedy either criticized the Post story or denied its accuracy.
Kennedy did not say that Stevenson had not first proposed concessions to Russia. That Stevenson supported Kennedy's decision, once it was made, can be taken for granted. His usefulness would be ended if he didn't.
Kennedy called on his council to get the members' advice. It has to be assumed that each would give his most honest advice, even if it disagreed with that of everyone else in the room.
It is out of the different opinions, and the conflict of opinions, that the President could reach a decision.
Even if Stevenson at first had advised concessions, this should hardly justify the public belittling inflicted upon him by the "non-admiring official" in the Post article.
But, just because there was a leak on what happened and because Stevenson was belittled, two serious questions are left:
1. The next time there is a crisis and Kennedy calls his council into very secret session, will the events there be piped out to the public later? If so, then what meaning does secrecy have?
2. After the Post disclosures—particularly after what happened to Stevenson—will council members in the future be willing to give a frank opinion since they can now fear, if the opinion is unpopular, it will be leaked?
This will give some idea of how detailed the Post story was, a number of people were quoted directly. But the following were directly quoted:
Kennedy himself; his brother, Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy; McNamara, Secretary of State Dean Rusk; Ray Cline, CIA's chief of intelligence in a telephone call to Bundy; CIA Director John McCone, and a number of people not otherwise identified except as "one of the wisest presidential ad-

Would Leave Paradise for Workers

By LOYAL GOULD
BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — "So you are another wicked American imperialist," the Budapest taxi driver said with a wry laugh. "I'd give anything if I could be an imperialist and leave this workers' paradise."
Istvan R., a burly, good natured fellow in his early 40s, had picked this reporter up in front of a Budapest hotel. Just before he dropped me, he invited me to visit his home.
"Pick you up tomorrow night at 7," he said.
Istvan's life is in sharp contrast with that led by the members of Communist Hungary's new privileged class. They live in different worlds.
The worker, for whom communism ostensibly was created, is still waiting for his blessings. On the average, he pays two weeks' wages for a pair of shoes or a month's salary for a suit. He may wait three years for an apartment, despite Hungary's many housing projects.
Members of the elite, on the other hand, are eligible to obtain houses in residential districts in the hills overlooking Budapest. They get preferential treatment in buying the 6,000 to 7,000 cars imported annually. They can buy French fashions and Western delicacies.
The road to Istvan's apartment led out of brightly lit downtown Budapest to a grimy industrial area. Here workers fought against Russian tanks in 1956.
We turned down a side street littered with discarded building material garbage and empty bot-ties. Istvan parked in front of an old building, still scarred from the Hungarian revolution.

Up three flights of grimy lift and rickety stairs, Istvan's wife, Ilona, offered glasses of barack, a brandy made from apricots, and a pot of weak coffee to thaw the chill.
"It's not much," Istvan said apologetically, "but it is the best coffee I can offer."
The apartment had two small rooms, a bath, and what could be described as a kitchenette for Istvan, his wife and two teenage sons.

Duck Hunters Encouraged by Experts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Duck hunters, who by regulation are shooting very few ducks this season, have received encouragement that things could be much better next year.

The key to good hunting in Arkansas is found in the breeding grounds of Canada, Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota. The word from that area is that a five-year drought was broken this year.

Millions of potholes which have been dried up for the past several years probably will be available to the ducks for breeding grounds next spring.

W. M. Apple of Little Rock, a vice president of the National Wildlife Federation and a longtime leader in Ducks Unlimited, said the situation looks encouraging.

"Under optimum conditions, the duck population could triple, he said.

Apple cited figures from wildlife reports to support his optimism.

"There are approximately 5 million potholes which are normally used by the ducks for breeding grounds," he said. "During the five-year drought which ended this year, an estimated 3.8 million of these potholes dried up.

"But in 1962, good rainfall was reported all over Canada except southern Alberta. Enough rain fell to saturate the ground and since the ground will be frozen all winter, this water will carry over into next spring.

"With a quick thaw and fast runoff in the spring, conditions will be excellent for the ducks with any sort of rain at all.

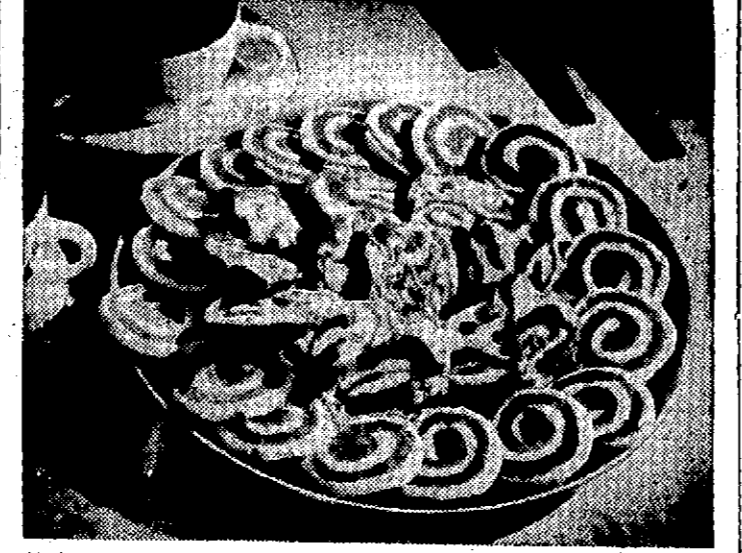

"This is more or less true for the states just south of the border. When I was in South Dakota in October, I found that state had received 31 inches of rain where they normally get about 18 inches for the whole year. Everything was filled and the carryover should take them through next summer."

If Arkansas is typical of other states in the Mississippi Flyway, few ducks will be killed this season — insuring that most of the population will return to the breeding grounds.

A one-mallard limit, limited shooting hours and a short season automatically reduced the potential kill. The ducks' chances also have been helped by a dry autumn which limits the amount of water available to the birds. As is customary under such conditions, the ducks favor the larger reservoirs — many of which have been closed to any shooting this season.

Apple also pointed out that duck hunters have received aid from Congress in the past two sessions

Whirl Cookies — Perfect For The Holidays

Christmas Time is Cookie Time — Rich and flavorful Whirl Cookies are perfect for every holiday festivity. Chocolate and Vanilla doughs are swirled together to form these festive pinwheels. For an unusual variation leftover ends of dough can be made into decorative marble cookies. These tasty cookies require few ingredients and can be made with ease the Robin Hood "no-sift" way.

This recipe was developed by Rita Martin, director of the International Milling Co. Robin Hood Flour test kitchens.

Whirl Cookies

(This is a Robin Hood Pre-sifted Flour recipe)

2 squares (2-oz.) unsweetened chocolate, melted
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup shortening
1 egg
1 (1-bsp.) vanilla
2 3/4 cups Robin Hood All Purpose Flour
1/2 tsp. baking powder
2 tsp. warm water

Melt chocolate over boiling water. Set aside until ready to use. Cream—sugar, butter, shortening, egg and vanilla thoroughly. Spoon—flour (not sifted) into dry measuring cup. Level off and pour measured flour onto a square of waxed paper. Add—baking powder and salt to flour (not sifted) and stir to blend. Add—blended dry ingredients to creamed mixture, mixing well. Sprinkle—water over combined ingredients and stir to blend. Divide—dough in half. Add melted chocolate to one portion of the dough, mixing well. Roll Out — each portion of dough, between waxed paper, into 4x6 inch rectangles.

Remove top sheets of waxed paper and place chocolate dough on top of light dough. Cover with waxed paper and roll combined doughs to a rectangle 1/4 inch thick, or less if desired. Roll Up—lengthwise, jelly-roll fashion, guiding the roll with the waxed paper. Chill — rolled dough for 1 1/2 hours, until firm. Slice — with a sharp knife into 1/8 inch slices. Place — on ungreased baking sheet. Bake at 400° for 8 to 10 minutes. Yield — 8 to 9 dozen cookies.

Marble Variation:

The ends of each roll, not tightly formed to yield perfect whirls, can be cut off and rolled together to form a marbled roll. Refrigerate, bake and slice roll as directed above.

*If you use ROBIN HOOD Pre-sifted Self-Rising Flour (sold in some sections of the country) omit baking powder and salt.

ated at $550 million, the relatively new member to the competitive field isn't much of a headache yet to the makers of main-springs.

But old hands in the industry have learned to be patient. They note it took 10 years for wrist watches to replace pocket watches in America. And the self-winding watch took some 20 years to become really popular.

The electric-battery watchmakers are counting on the big inroads that form of energy is making in many fields to attract attention to their product.

They point out that compact energy cells have taken over in many devices once dominated by motors, plug-ins or hand power. They cite battery-run electric shavers and toothbrushes. Pencil sharpeners are operated by batteries in some offices. There are battery-powered cigarette lighters for smokers and even swizzle sticks for bartenders. And you may have noted that teen-agers carry battery powered radios and record players.

Watches first appeared during the Renaissance. Until recently the source of power has always been the mainspring. For centuries this was wound by hand. The spring moves the balance wheel, which in turn moves the hands of the watch. In recent years the self-winding variety has kept the mainspring wound by the motion of the wearer's arm.

The latest watch version, as now offered by a majority of watch companies, including Bulova, Hamilton, Elgin and Timex, does away with the mainspring. In its place a battery, slightly larger than an aspirin tablet, feeds power to the balance wheel. The battery lasts about a year and the owner never winds his watch, whether it is on his wrist or in a drawer. The electric current keeps the balance wheel going. A new cell costs about $1.

"Congress in 1961 appropriated $105 million to restore damaged breeding areas," he said. "And this year a bill was passed which curtailed government subsidies in connection with drainage. Drainage in the breeding areas will be out unless the Fish and Wildlife Service does not wish the land to be used for ducks."

So, if nature continues to cooperate in the breeding areas will be the same comeback which has occurred in both deer and quail populations.

New Rivalry in the Watch Industry

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The long-embattled watch industry has a new rivalry these days—the mainspring vs. the electric battery.

In an industry where change traditionally comes slowly, the inroads of the tiny battery haven't been too striking as yet. But the makers of battery-powered watches hope to do about 5 per cent of the total business this year.

With about 20 million watches being sold annually in the United States for a dollar volume esti-

Christmas Good for Cats, Kids

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—They say Christmas is for kids. But it is also a great time for cats.

In our house the cat we belong to seems to get more downright enjoyment out of Christmas than people.

During most of the year I have a secret guilty feeling that our cat, Lady Dotie, is somewhat cheated by life. She spends her time, except for a brief stroll in the corridor early in the morning and late at night cooped up in our apartment.

It is a big deal for her when a daring, high-flying sparrow lights on the window ledge of our eighth-floor apartment, and flirts its wings saucily. Then Lady Dotie is suddenly transformed from a sedate old maid into a maddened beatnik.

She loses all her ordinary poise and aplomb and beats at the window wildly until the sparrow shrugs its feathers as if to say—"Well, it takes all kinds to make a world"—and flies away.

Outside of these occasional adventures with sparrows, Lady Dotie derives her greatest thrill from Christmas.

It turns her from a cool, plush sophisticate into a gawky, wide-eyed kitten.

Like a child at Christmas, she won't let you hide anything from her. She is into everything.

She races to the door when the mailman or delivery man comes. She snoops and sniffs at every package. She tried to undo the strings with busy paws.

"Why don't you grow up, Lady Dotie?" I tell her. "After all, you're getting along in years. Why don't you act your age?"

Lady Dotie pays no attention at all. Christmas makes her feel young, and she has an idea that the whole worldwide yuletide pageant is put on exclusively for her benefit.

One of her great joys when we open a box. She leaps into it, bats the crinkly paper around to hear the sound, then lies down and turns on the inside motor of her delight and emits a mighty purr.

But her happiness reaches a zenith when we put up our two Christmas trees, and turn on the lights. We usually decorate two trees, a tall live one green with needles, and a small artificial tree with aluminum branches that someone gave us years ago.

Lady Dotie watches gravely as we put each ornament into place, interrupting us now and then to nibble tentatively at a green branch or an aluminum needle.

When the job is finally completed and the children down the hall come in to inspect it, Lady Dotie leads them on proud feet from one tree to the other as if to say:

"See what I did?"

At the end of the season, as I take down the decorations, Lady Dotie watches me with sad, reproachful eyes, and I have the weird feeling that I am in some way hurting the idealism of a small child.
